1. CONDITIONS FOR SUBMISSION OF THE APPLICATION

Eligible applicants Accredited higher education institutions (universities) from Romania which hold an Erasmus Charter for Higher Education (ECHE) approved by the European Commission

Description The main objective of these projects is to strengthen institutional cooperation in The Higher Education (HE) Area based on common needs.

Through the Education, Scholarships, Apprenticeships and Youth Entrepreneurship programme, higher education students will acquire professional skills and knowledge, giving them an asset on the labour market; at the same time, the staff will improve their professional competences. At the institutional level, the component will have positive impact on the internationalisation process of the university and it will produce long-lasting affects through improvements of i.e. curricula and teaching methods.

Cooperation projects between RO, DS and other BS universities could take the following forms:

- Strategic cooperation projects that seek to modernise or innovate the curricula (intellectual outputs<sup>1</sup> are mandatory);
- Small size cooperation projects that aim to exchange good practices in the field of teaching methodologies and organize short term exchanges for students.

Cooperation projects in The Higher Education Area are meant to support innovation and improvement of the teaching methods, curriculum development, to contribute to the modernisation of the university and to ensure a closer relationship between the educational offer and the world of work.

Cooperation projects in The Higher Education Area can be proposed in any field of study.

The projects may address the issue of developing a common curriculum, by creating inter alia:

- Integrated programmes, covering a complete cycle of study (bachelor, master or doctoral level), concluded with a joint diploma or a diploma mutually recognised;
- Study programmes and modules for initial and continuous training;
- Teaching modules in fields with a strong inter-disciplinary component

In this respect, joint study programmes or teaching modules can encompass the 1st cycle of study (bachelor), the 2nd (master) or the 3rd (doctoral). The curriculum and modules for continuous training will target updating already acquired knowledge, with a special focus on improving skills and competences which increase employability.

Projects focusing on developing common modules will also address issues like learning outcomes, recognition and type of diploma/certificate as well as the European Credit Transfer System (ECTS) and Diploma Supplement.

After a development stage of one or two years, these programmes or modules will be made available to partner institutions in a truly integrated way, thus ensuring sustainability. When concluding the study programme, students will receive joint or multiple diplomas (or certificates in the case of modules), recognised by all participating institutions and countries.

Modernisation projects imply actions to increase attractiveness of higher education institutions and to make them more responsive to the needs of labour market, citizens and society in general.

Cooperation within these projects can include, inter alia :

- Elaborating lifelong learning strategies and reinforcing the link between higher education on one side and vocational training (VET) on the other side, thus helping HEIs become “continuous education centres” or “open education centres” in their region.
- Facilitating access of persons coming from socio-economically disadvantaged fields, who have received non-formal or informal education or who possess alternative qualifications, i.e. obtained by learning through accumulating practical experience.
- Ensuring transparency of mission and performance of HEIs, increasing quality, improving governance or diversifying funding.

Projects that focus on reinforcing the link between the educational offer and the demands of the world of work can bring together HEIs, companies, research institutes, social partners<sup>2</sup> or NGO's.

In this respect, structured partnerships with the business community (including SMEs) can increase the relevance, quality and attractiveness of education and education and training programmes.

Cooperation projects may organise short term transnational mobility activities of individuals if they are relevant for the objectives of the project, like for example:

- Transnational project management meetings: meetings between project partners for implementation and coordination purposes. The activity period will be up to 4 working days. The maximum number of eligible transnational project meetings will be 4- for projects with a duration of more than 12 months and 2 - for projects with a duration of less than 12 months.

- Short term mobility of students<sup>3</sup>. The transnational learning period is between 5 days and 30 days. If needed, learning activities may combine the period of physical mobility (up to 30 days in total) with virtual activities (i.e. the use of information and communication technologies such as collaborative workspaces, live streaming, videoconferencing, social media, etc. to complement or prolong the learning outcomes of physical mobility).

- Intensive Study Programmes (“Summer Schools”).

The activity period is between 5 days and 30 days. For teaching staff (including invited teachers) the activity period is between 1 day to 30 days.

An Intensive Study Programme (ISP) is a short programme of study which brings together students and teaching staff from partner HEIs, as well as other relevant invited experts/ specialists/ professionals in order to:

- encourage efficient and multinational teaching of specialized topics;

<sup>2</sup> Or other institutions with an active role in modernising Higher Education.

<sup>3</sup> Higher education students must be registered in a participating HEI and enrolled in studies leading to a recognised degree or other recognised tertiary level qualification, up to and including the level of doctorate.

- enable students and teachers to work together in multinational and multidisciplinary groups and so to benefit from special learning and teaching conditions that are not available in a single institution, and to gain new perspectives on the topic being studied;
- allow members of the teaching staff to exchange views on the teaching content, new curricula approaches, to test innovative teaching methods that could eventually become part of a newly developed joint course or curriculum in an international classroom environment.

Eligible participants: students<sup>1</sup> and teaching staff from HEIs participating in the project, specialists from other institutions than HEIs that are partners in the project.

The selection of ISP participants is carried out by the project partners.

The number of teaching and training hours under the framework of an ISP must ensure that the majority of the time is related to education and training and not to research or any other activity.

- Short-term joint staff training events. The activity period is between 3 days to 30 days.

Joint staff training events allow the project partners to organise short training events for education and training staff linked to the topic or scope of the project. These should be organised for small groups of staff from different countries in order to maximise the impact on each participating organisation

Eligible participants: professors, teachers, trainers, educational and administrative staff working in the partner organisations.

NB: - Each project shall have its own website or webpage in order to disseminate the projects activities, results and outputs.

- The issuing of a joint publication is a compulsory output, no matter the type of project.
- The organisation of at least one joint event (intensive programme, seminar, workshop, conference, training course, etc.) is compulsory, no matter the type of project. Please note that costs for seminars, workshops, conferences, training courses envisaged in the projects, will be supported only from project management and implementation budget heading.
- All the activities of the project must take place in the countries of the organizations participating in the project.
- The participants coming from project partners situated in the same country where the activity take place, could receive funds for travel and individual support only if at least one of the DS project partners will have participants in that activity.

Who can participate

- The Romanian Higher Education Institution (HEI) (with ECHE) applies to PO, on behalf of a consortium composed of at least 2 institutions, including at least one institution/organisation from a DS;
- The other members of the consortium can be accredited universities, companies, research institutes, social partners<sup>4</sup>, NGOs from DS or BS and VET-institutions in Switzerland with a specific cooperation agreement with a company from Liechtenstein.
